Personal Growth

Bio:

For over 30 years, international speaker, author, coach, Susan Fitzell has worked closely with educators, students, and amazing human beings to discover their personal learning preferences so they can learn fast and achieve more. She zeros in on what motivates employees so they can get their job done and break through self-imposed limitations.

She moves audiences into action with her practical, productive, and efficient learning strategies as well as her positive, uplifting approach. Her philosophy is, "Can't is a four-letter word!" Believe you CAN and do GREAT things by using your talents and strengths.

She's a black belt in kickboxing and a student of kung fu. Her family prides themselves in being geeks and her two adult children have both earned degrees in mechanical engineering using the strategies that she shares with her clients.
